First of "Foreign Tours" Was Mapped By Delighted Ex-plorers Saturday Night

That one need not board a great set in order to reach Japan from Honolulu was demonstrated Saturday were: F. A. Edgecomb, Mrs. H. F. and tourists left the Hawaiian hotel man, R. H. Lowrie, A. M. Cristy, at 5:30 o'clock for a "trip to Japan," Mrs. Edna Barlow, H. A. Somers, Mrs. under the auspices of the Trail and Mountain and Pan-Pacific clubs.

Instead of boarding a steamer the party clambered aboard a Waialae street car, rode to the King street end of the line, where they got off and plunged down a narrow alley which even the Orient itself could not outdo in the matter of sights and smells smells particularly.

"I had no idea there was such a dis-trict in Honolulu," was the comment of one Honolulu man, a resident for eight years. In fact only two local people had ever been exploring in that section before, S. Sheba, editor of the Hawaii Shinpo, and Alexander Hume Ford, editor of the Mid-Pacific

Two Shinto temples were first visited, at one of which the priest was busy with sunset devotional exercises—the throb of his big drum attracting the attention of all passersby, even though the gods being supplicated though the gods being supplicated may not have heard.

Devious alleys led from place to place of interest. From some unnamed byway a typically Japanese sky-line was shown against the western sky, with three oddly sloping temple

Seven o'clock found the explorers walking down an unpromising dusty alley off School street. The trail ended in front of a high board fence.

"Step right into capan," invited Mr. Ford, throwing open a narrow gate, and those who entered were transported by a step from the tropics of the Entirely New Here midpacific into a miniature Japanese Garden, with stone lanterns, dwarf trees, ponds, a water fall, gold fish and narrow graveled paths. Along one side of the garden ran a low house. open at one side, and there at the long, low Japanese table places were laid for the guests, and 25 cushions serv-SEE OUR WINDOW DISPLAY ed in lieu of chairs. The place was the Azuma tea garden, little known to ed in lieu of chairs. The place was any save Japanese residents.

After removing their shoes, and donning kimonos and sandals the explorers were served with a Japanese dinner, and later went into the tiny theater to see the Giesha girls dance and hear Japanese music.

LOGAN ARRIVES WITH YOUNG JAPANESE BRIDE

Members of Kamehameha alumni, headed by President H. Godfrey of the alumni association, met the Tenyo Maru at Pier 7 this morning and greeted M. H. Logan, a graduate of Kamehameha schools, and Mrs. Logan. Logan graduated from the local school in 1910 and for the past four years he has been a student of Waseda university in Japan, studying the language of that country. He returns to practise law in Honolulu. Mrs. Logan is Japanese, and this is her first visit to Hawali.

Logan presented a strange picture on arrival of the Tenyo. Surrounded by a crowd of Orientals, he started addressing the shore. He was garbed in Japanese sandais, with a Japanes kimono covered with a shirt. On his head he wore a straw hat and in his hand was a strange-looking bag. Those on shore hazarded guesses as to the identity of the strange-appearing man until he w's recognized as Logan. The arrival said he did it for a lark.

TRY MURINE EYEREMED For Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and GRANULATED EYELIDS

"The Bachelor's Romance," a clean, delightful comedy-drama, the kind that leaves a pleasant after-effect and adds greatly to the power of the photoplay, is being offered at the Liberty theater for the first half of the week, having been given its premier last night. John Emerson appears in the leading role, that of David Holmes, the timid bachelor, who considers a woman a snare and a delusion until he discovers that he is in love with his beautiful young ward, Sylvia. Sylvia makes a discovery at about the same ime, her discovery being that she is in love with David.

Mr. Emerson's unique portrayal of the retiring and reticent bachelor is one of the most delicate and artistic characterizations he ever contributed to the screen. Lorraine Huling, in the role of Sylvia, makes a most accept-
